

THE BRITISH COLONIST.
Thursday Morning, August 1, 1867.
Shipping Intelligence.
PORT OF VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA.
ENTERED
July 31—Star Enterprise, Swanson, New Westminster
CLEARED
July 31—Star Enterprise, Swanson, New Westminster
DEAD
At San Francisco, July 16th, Ernest, son of Gustav and Theresa, aged 4 months and 6 days.

ITEMS FROM THE NEW WESTMINSTER "EXAMINER."—Mr Henry Young, late of Sarin, C.W., has been drowned in a slough twenty miles below Hope while swimming a horse across. Deceased was 26 years of age and came to the colony in 1862. The captain of the ship Astoria has donated $25 to the British Columbia Hospital. The Astoria is ready for sea. Two thousand two hundred pounds of butter, made at Sumas, and sent forward in six-pound tins, has reached Cariboo in splendid condition, and is preferred to firkin butter. A quart lead from four to eight feet thick, has been discovered near Cedar Creek, Cariboo. It is supposed to be quite rich. A new brick store is to be built at New Westminster by Cunningham Bros. Neither the steamer Onward nor Lillooet had sufficient freight last week to justify a trip to Yale. The Examiner has information from Kootenay which states that on Findlay Creek there are diggings extensive enough to give employment to a thousand men if they had water to work with. A party are waiting for Judge O'Reilly's arrival to get a charter for constructing a ditch, which will cost about $15,000. The diggings pay from $8 to $10 a day. One company is at work packing the dirt to the river.

BRILLIANT METEOR.—A brilliant meteor was observed last evening, at 20 minutes past 9 o'clock. It commenced at a point some two degrees below Venus, which was about six degrees above the southeastern horizon, and travelled a distance of fully eighty degrees in a few seconds. Viewing the erratic visitor from James Bay bridge, it appeared about nine inches in diameter. It started with three blue lights and then quickly united in one blue ball of fire; when about one-half the distance had been accomplished it separated once more, only to come together again almost immediately, and emitting a long tail of yellow fire disappeared. Its course was from southeast to northwest. Its brilliancy was unequalled by any previous meteorical display in this latitude, and produced a marked effect upon beholders.

Who is He?—We understand that the Duke of Cambridge has decided on calling upon a general officer of Her Majesty's army to resign his commission in consequence of his name having been associated with a recent notorious turf scandal. Although this is not the first occasion in which this officer has appeared in an unfavorable manner before the public, we believe that the Duke of Cambridge has only decided on taking this step on the General in question having declined, on the ground that pecuniary embarrassments render his presence in London impossible, to appear before a private court of inquiry of his brother officers at the Horse Guards. We believe that the Secretary of State for War has fully concurred with his Royal Highness in the course proposed.—Royal and Navy Gazette.

A CHARGE DISMISSED.—John Scott was accused of having stripped the horse of a countryman of a saddle and blanket, while the owner was in a house drinking. Scott was found with the articles in his possession. He was only liberated from jail on Monday, having served a term of imprisonment for selling whisky to Indians. Scott, through his attorney, Mr. Courtney, pleaded that he found the saddle and blankets lying on the street, beneath the horse, and that he only picked them up to make a bed for himself in the bushes. The prisoner tearfully scorned the insinuation that he would steal anything, especially so "paltry a thing as that" (pointing to the saddle) and said he was no jail-bird. The magistrate, moved by his eloquence, discharged Scott "without a stain on his character."

We are informed that certain parties are engaged in selling goods from Oregon by wholesale without a license. This system should be checked, and the police are to blame for not keeping their eyes open and detecting such violators of the law. Not only is the revenue defrauded of the amount of the license, but resident merchants who have taken out licenses and who occupy stores are placed at a great disadvantage by the illicit traders, who, having none of these expenses to meet are enabled to undersell our own citizens. The purchaser as well as the vendor should be liable to a fine in cases of selling goods without a license.

ADMIRAL HASTINGS has issued an order that no more of his men shall be set out to work with the chain-gang. We regard this as an eminently proper order. We have never been able to see the propriety of herding gallant Jack Tars who might be guilty of indiscretions and minor offences against naval regulations with criminals of the blackest moral hue. Certainly, no more effectual mode of rendering them forever unfit for her Majesty's service could have been devised than sentencing them to the chain-gang.

THE GROUSE CREEK DIFFICULTY.—Several private despatches have been received by the Government. Commissioner Ball started for Grouse Creek on Saturday evening last, to try and arrange matters. The Examiner says one report states that the Canadian Company were taking out gold in enormous quantities and had built a stockade.

CONFIRMATION AT ST. PAUL.—On Tuesday afternoon the Bishop of Columbia, assisted by Rev. A. C. Garrett, Rector, confirmed a number of persons at St. Paul's Church, Esquimalt. The services, which were of an interesting character, attracted many people. We are glad to know that the number of communicants at St. Paul's is increasing.

If you wish the very best CABINET PHOTOGRAPHY, you must call on BRADLEY & RUTHERFORD, 429 Montgomery street, San Francisco.

THE CRICKET MATCH.—The match between the Fleet eleven and the Victoria eleven will come off to-morrow, at Colwood. Wickets will be pitched at 10:30 a.m. The band of the iron-plaid will be on the ground, and the playing, it is believed, will be excellent. The Victorians will start from the city for the ground at 9 o'clock.

SAD NEWS FROM H. M. S. SCOUT.—Private advices from Panama announce that Doctor Sproule of H. M. S. Scout, and nineteen of the men, have died of yellow fever, which is raging with fatal violence in all the South American ports. The Scout left Panama, July 1st, to enjoy the more salubrious and healthful climate of Vancouver Island.

LATE FRUIT.—A quantity of late cherries and other small fruit will be sent below on the Active to-day. It is believed the fruit will meet with ready sale at San Francisco, as the local supply there is exhausted for this year.

FOR THE SOUND.—The steamer New World and Eliza Anderson sailed yesterday for ports on Puget Sound. The Anderson carried fifty tons of freight, which came up on the Monitor in transit for one of the mills.

OVERLAND RAILWAY.—Alfred Waddington, Esq., we understand, will sail in the next steamer for Canada and England with the object of furthering his scheme for the construction of an overland railway through British Columbia to Canada.

CAPTAIN PORCHER, R.N., left Esquimalt in the Leviathan on Tuesday, and joined the Governor and Mr. Trutch at N.W. Westminster on Saturday, starting from that place for the scene of difficulty on Grouse Creek yesterday afternoon.

FOR THE NORTHWEST COAST.—The H. B. Company's steamer Otter will sail to-morrow or on Saturday next for the Northwest Coast on business connected with the Company's interests there.

THE BEAVER will steam round to Esquimalt to-day for inspection by the Admiral, and will sail for the North to resume her surveying duties on Friday or Saturday.

METLAKATLAH MISSION.—Rev. Mr. Owens arrived on the last steamer from England, and will go North on the Otter to assist Mr. Dupean at Metlakatlah.

Pic-Nic.—Maggie's Band Pic-Nic at Cabbro Bay will positively take place on Wednesday next, 7th inst. Particulars will appear to-morrow.

SHOT.—A mare belonging to Solicitor General Wood was shot and killed on Monday by some unknown person near that gentleman's residence.

VICTORIA INFANTRY CORPS.—First Class Friday, Tuesday and Friday, at 4 p.m. By order, J. GORDON VINTER, Lieut. and Adj. *

ARRIVED SAFELY.—Letters from England announce the safe arrival there of Mr. Alex. Watson and family, and Mr. W. A. Harries.

THE ENTERPRISE returned from New Westminster last evening with about twenty passengers.

FEMALE COMPLAINTS should be cured, as they surely can be, by a few doses of AYER'S SASSAPARILLA.

LIQUOR LICENSES.—A Petty Sessions Court will be held to-day at the Police Office, where liquor licenses will be granted.

THE POST OFFICE.—The mail per steamer Active will close this evening at six o'clock.

An Annexationist Meets with a Rebuke in the House of his Friends.

(From the Port Townsend Messenger)
The Victoria News of Sunday comes out with a sledge hammer leader on "Confederation vs. Annexation." After showing what advantage it would be to the Colony to be annexed, in the immigration from California, and the capital that would seek investment there, the News goes on to say:
"The North Pacific Railroad, which it is now alleged will terminate at near Seattle, would much more likely tap the Fraser at New Westminster, so as to control the trade of British Columbia, and make the Straits of Fuca and Gulf of Georgia the great commercial highway to and from the populous countries bordering the Atlantic."
Du tell! Our friend the News must have been troubled with abortion of the brain, when it conceived the idea that the Pacific Railroad would terminate at Westminster. A bright idea, indeed, for an Indian, or any deep water vessel, to have to wade her way through the mud-flats at the mouth of the Fraser in order to get to New Westminster. Besides the place is frozen up every winter. But then the reason why the railroad would "tap the Fraser" is "to control the trade of British Columbia." And where, pray, would the trade of British Columbia go, should the terminus of the railroad be on Puget Sound? Would it go to Sitka? Truly, the News gets over notions into its head in connection with the annexation scheme.

A BLUEBONNET ON THE RAMPAGE.—Mr. Howe, of Nova Scotia, is not content with the consolidation of the British Provinces, under the title of the Dominion of Canada. His opposition is of consequence enough to indicate future trouble; and the seeds of discontent are busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian should take a pound of revenue out of Nova Scotia (Charters). Nor should any Canadian exercise control or dominion over us. Dominion, he is busy sowing may grow up into a formidable crop. He gives vent to his bitterness. He made a speech recently the violence of which may be judged by a single passage: "I say again, as I said in Halifax, that if it were not for my respect for that (the British) flag, and for my allegiance to the British crown, never a Canadian

